FRIENDS OF MR. AND MRS. W. D. ROBERTS OF MOKENA HONOR THEM ON WEDDING ANNIVER.

A large group of friends gathered in St. Mary's hall on Wolf Road in Mokena last Saturday evening to surprise Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Roberts in observance of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Dancing formed the diversion of the evening until a mock wedding took place. The participants in the wedding were: Mr. Clarence Mast, the blushing bride, and he was beautiful in a blue gown; the groom, Peter Mancke, who was very attentive to his new bride. Barney Hostert was best man and David Hauser was brides' maid. Martin Jungles carried the bride's long train, and little Harold Cooper, wearing an attractive white skirt and waist was flower girl. Mr. Jesse Anderson of Alpine was the minister who tied the knot for Mr. and Mrs. Pliver and he claims he did a good job.

The wedding march was played by the orchestra which furnished the dance music.

Refreshment's were served at the close of the evening's celebration.

It so happened that Mrs. Roberts birthday was Sunday and Mr. Roberts was on Monday.

Tinley Celebrating 100th Birthday This Week End

The big day has arrived—the 100th birthday anniversary of Tinley Park, otherwise called a Centennial. The old town has come a long ways in 100 years, years of progress and stepping forward.

The old time scenes seem to reappear before our eyes by way of exhibits of the old day articles to be seen in the exhibitor's hall in the Saenger hall. See the old time country store with old time articles.

The editor has also contributed a few old relics by way of his grandfather Martin Heim's old black walnut bar now about 85 years old. This bar was in use in the early days when Mr. Heim operated a tavern in the same building now housing The News-Bulletin printing office.

Another relic is the shoemaker bench of the editor's father John Semmler. This bench is about 75 years old. Mr. Semmler was in the cobbler business in Chicago on DeKoven street at the time of the great Chicago fire and later he came to New Lenox where he had a shoe shop for 25 years and then came to Mokena.

The festivities will open the night of October 5th and continue thru Saturday and Sunday afternoon and evening. There will be rides and entertainment galore, also plenty of eats and refreshments. Be sure to see the very special feature a life size album picturing the scenes of long ago.

Sunday afternoon will be the highlight of the gala three days when the great parade will be the feature with floats and a myriad of attractions and features. See Wilson and Co., famous 6 horse hitch. After the parade this horse hitch and drive will be on the Memorial Park grounds.

Everyone is heartily invited to all the festivities. Bring your friends and neighbors with you.

ST. JUDES CHURCH, NEW LENOX SCENE OF PRETTY WEDDING

At a nine o'clock nuptial mass read the morning of September 29, in St. Jude's Catholic church in New Lenox, Miss Mary Etta Staples, sister of Mrs. Lester Brown, became the bride of James Francis Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks.

The Rev. Father Reynold Klaes officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with large bouquets of White Gladioli, Baby Mums, and Carnations, and palms. During the nuptial mass and ceremony Miss Lillian Behar sang "Ave Maria", "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" and "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy" with Miss Nan Collins as the organist.

Given in marriage by her brother in law, Lester Brown, the bride wore a simple gown of white brocaded satin made with a long fitted torso, sweetheart neckline, and tight fitting sleeves that were lined with tiny satin buttons. Her softly gathered bouffant skirt ended in a modified train. A crown of white beaded pearls held the bride's veil in place and she carried a white pearl rosary, a gift of the groom and a white moire satin prayer book that held a cluster of baby mums tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Frances DiSera of Joliet attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing an ice blue satin gown made similar to that of the bride. A crown of organly flowers and petals held her ice blue blusher veil in place. She carried an arm bouquet of American beauty roses tied with matching satin ribbons. Robeert Tate of Joliet was the best man. The wedding guests were ushered into the church by Robt. Brock and Francis Berens.

Little Shelby Jean Brown, niece of the bride was the flower girl, and she wore a floor length peach taffeta gown with matching flower tiera on her hair. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white Carnations.

The Colonial Tea room at Joliet was the scene of the wedding breakfast which was held immediately after the wedding for the members of the bridal party and families.

A reception was held from 8 until 12 that evening in the dining room of the church for approximately 40 friends and relatives. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth centered with a miniature bride and groom, and flanked by white lighted tapers held in crystal candelabra.

The bride's sister wore a two piece dress of Fuschia with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias; while the groom's mother wore a two piece dress of aqua crepe with black accessories and also wore a corsage of gardenias. When the couple departed for a northern wedding trip, the new Mrs. Brooks was wearing a grey pin stripe suit with Black patent accessories and a corsage of baby mums.

Previous to her marriage, the former Miss Staples attended the Trinity High school at River Forest, and had since been employed at the Navy Depot in Rockdale. The groom was graduated from St. Precopius College at Lisle, Ill. and attended the University of Marquette at Milwaukee, Wis. He received an honorable medical discharge after serving several months in the US Coast Guards, and is at present employed at the Navy Depot in Rockdale.

Upon their return they will set up housekeeping in their newly furnished bungalow east of town.

Out of town guests at the wedding and reception were from: Detroit and Owasso, Mich. Chicago, Polo, Joliet and Troy.

She was attended by Miss Smith, a friend from the University of Illinois, and the groom was attended by the bride's brother Donald Wilkin.

The bride wore a fuschia suit with gray accessories and wore a wrist band bouquet of white flowers.

Later a reception was held in the bride's home for 65 relatives and friends. A buffet dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis are on a honeymoon trip to Canada and will reside in Chicago Heights.

PUREBRED HOLLSTEIN MAKES OUTSTANDING RECORD

A pure bred Holstein from the herd of Louis Holm, Mokena, made an outstanding record in her September DHI test. With 70 pounds of milk per day and a 4.7 test she is credited with a month's production of 2100 pounds of milk and 98.7 pounds of fat.

As part of their program of building an outstanding herd Holms recently purchased a 13 months old sire, Duke Etta Rue Bess. Coming from a pure bred Holstein herd whose average production was 532.9 pounds of fat for a year, he has a sound background for the job of improving the herd. His dam in her sixth year produced 17640 lbs. of milk and 729.2 lbs. of fat with an average test of 4.17; on three times a day milking. His sire was proven by daughters which produced up to 965 lbs. of fat in a year.

Tinley Fire Chief Warns of Home Fire Hazards

The Tinley Park Vol. Fire Dept. will observe Fire Prevention week from Oct. 7 to 13.

Fire Chief Henry F. Bruggeman has issued the following statement:

Every citizen should help, because almost all fires have their origin in some thoughtless act or some simple hazard. The principal causes of fires are matches and smoking, misuse of electrical equipment and appliances, rubbish and litter, unsafe heating apparatus and defective flues, and carelessness with gasoline and petroleum products. All of these can be controlled by slight effort.

Every home should be checked by its occupant and made fire safe from attic to cellar. Stores, factories and other properties should be inspected by competent personnel; and all fire hazards and unsafe practices corrected. Schools, churches and other places where people gather or are confined should be inspected by local fire authorities, and observance of the fire regulations required.

Lt. R. B. Greenman of New Lenox Has Thrilling Experience

Lt. Robert B. Greenman, Medical Corp. US Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Greenman of New Lenox, returned home September 24 after spending the past six years overseas.

Lt. Greenman left New Lenox July 3, 1939 for duty in China. He was stationed at the 4th Marine Regimental Hospital in Shanghai. Later he was the medical officer on the gunboat Oahu, one of the Patrol boats on the Yangtze River from Shanghai to Hankow, China.

Because of the growing threat of war near the end of 1940 the families of Navy personnel were sent back to the United States and Lt. Greenman's wife and two sons returned at that time. As war approached the gunboats were made seaworthy and sent to Manila. They reached Manila harbor just previous to the bombing by the Japs. The Oahu was blown up in the harbor there and Lt. Greenman escaped to Corregidor but was taken prisoner on May 6, 1942 when Corregidor surrendered. He was in the Philippines until Oct. 1944 spending about 2 years in Bilid Prison in Manila. In October 1944, he, with a group of about 150 started on the way to Japan. They first went to Takow on Formosa where they stayed about 2 months. They arrived in Moji, on January 25, 1945 and started a 1000 mile train ride from Shimomoseki to the northern end of the Island of Honshu, arriving on January 30, 1945. They had come from the Tropics to the worst winter in Japan for 40 years, with very little food, few clothes poor bedding, and insufficient fuel. Even under these adverse conditions in this camp only eight died out of 350 officers and men. This camp was liberated on September 11, 1945. Lt. Greenman, was flown to Guam, from Guam to Honolulu, then to San Francisco. He arrived in Chicago on Sept. 24 where he was met by his wife and sons, and other members of his family. He is now at Great Lakes Naval hospital for rest and recuperation. His family is overjoyed at his safe return.

During three and one half years as a prisoner he received only one letter and one package from home. He carried a cake of toilet soap from this package in his medical kit through all the remainder of his imprisonment and home again.

This bombed-out area in the heart of Tokyo, near the imperial palace, shows the devastating results of American fire bombing attacks. Each section of the city is responsible for clearing away its own debris and the Japanese have been ordered to do a good job.

Defense Lines, Bases Desired by Army in Pacific

Proposals by Air Gen. Henry H. Arnold for maintenance of a series of defense lines in the Pacific for future national security is receiving growing support in congress. The latest proposal would provide major fleet bases at Pearl Harbor, Guam, Saipan, Manus and Noumea, with a main naval air base at Mactan island in the Philippines. The whole would provide chains of security far from the United States shores. The house committee said the bases are needed to maintain peace.

Hurricane and Fires Strike Florida Keys

More than 200 persons were reported injured in a fire at the Richmond navy blimp base as a tropical hurricane reaching a peak velocity of 143 miles per hour swept across the Florida Keys. More than 50,000 persons were driven to seek emergency shelter in South Florida alone. Hundreds of homes were reported damaged and destroyed in the Keys.

Promise Delivery of Thousands of Tires

Tires, thousands of them, are shown moving out of the huge plants of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio, to civilian users everywhere. Recruiting Head

To Brig. Gen. Harold N. Gilbert, USA, has been entrusted the direction of the greatest recruiting campaign in the history of the army.

FARM WAGE DELIRIUM

WASHINGTON. — Live-wire Republican Sen. Ralph Brewster of Maine recently telephoned hard-working Assistant Secretary of Labor Carl Moran, also from Maine, but a Democrat.

"Portland is among the nine distress cities of the country," Senator Brewster reminded Moran. "As you know, Portland shipyard workers have been dismissed from their jobs wholesale. Meanwhile, farmers up in Aroostook county can't get anyone to bring in their potatoes. What can you do about it?"

"What are they paying for farm labor in Aroostook county," asked the assistant secretary of labor; "still four cents?"

"No," replied the senator from Maine, "There's a guaranteed wage of $12 a day."

Assistant Secretary Moran said he would do his best to switch some workers up to the potato farms. However, he might well have replied that the labor department was that in name only and that it actually had almost nothing to do with labor.

For the fact is that, under Miss Perkins, the labor department was stripped of most of its labor duties. The War Labor board is separate and independent, and, most important of all, the U. S. employment service is under the War Manpower commission. Thus, Assistant Secretary of Labor Moran had to turn to an outside agency, the U. S. employment service, to try to get discharged shipyard workers to help harvest the Aroostook potato crop.

This, in turn, has brought out another difficulty affecting not merely Maine but the entire nation. Most war workers, drawing $1 to $2 an hour plus overtime and bonuses, don't want to go back to the farm and farm wages. The labor shortage on the farms, even after V-J Day, is as acute as ever. Farm wages are higher than ever, though still a long way from shipyard and aviation factory pay. So, somehow or other, either farm wages must go up, or war workers must go back to less money on the farm. In the former case, the farmers will have to get more for their crops, which, of course, means a higher cost of living in the city.

Ambassadors' Wives.

Last week this column reported that Mrs. Ed Pauley, wife of the U. S. reparations ambassador to Moscow and former treasurer of the Democratic national committee, was listed to receive $25 a day expenses while accompanying her husband to Russia. Since then, I have received further information that Mrs. Pauley, although listed by the state department as an official member of the party, declined to accept the $25 per diem.

However, I still believe it a highly debatable point, when a million or so G.I.s are not permitted to have their wives come abroad, that American higher-ups should take their wives with them to overseas war areas. After all, the average American soldier now occupying Germany or Japan has not seen his wife for more than a year.

When the Pauley reparations mission arrived in western Europe, the party was split up, because of limited accommodations in Moscow.

One group, including some of the best experts on reparations, were told to remain in Frankfurt, Germany, because there was no room to house them in Moscow. But Mrs. Pauley, despite limited accommodations, went on to Moscow.

Later, she also visited Potsdam for the Big Three session. She was the only American wife present. Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Byrnes, wife of the secretary of state, remained at home. And during the last session of the Big Three, Mrs. Pauley sat in the gallery, a privileged witness to the historic ceremony. Many U. S. and British experts who had spent weeks preparing for this big climax and who had burned midnight oil whipping the agreement into shape, were barred from seeing the windup.

NOTE—On August 4, this column reported that the office of war information had given Mrs. R. A. McClure, wife of General McClure, a privileged job as receptionist in OWI's Paris office, thus permitting her to be near her husband in Germany. Immediately after publication of this disclosure, the OWI received an order from the White House for Mrs. McClure to come back to the United States.

Capital Chaff.

The shortening of the congressional recess, which was to last until October 8, has forced several congressmen to look for temporary lodgings in Washington. They had leased their homes for the anticipated recess period. Some, like Los Angeles' Chet Holifield, were foresighted enough to make arrangements to have at least a bedroom available if they returned. . . . Congressman Karl Mundt of South Dakota, one of the most vigorous Red-hunters of the old Dies committee, is traveling in Russia. . . .

LOVE FOR GOD AND LOVE FOR MAN

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

"What shall I do?" The question of the lawyer in our lesson is a query which is on the lips or in the minds of millions of men and women each day. They want to do right and want to be right, but their lives lack the direction which only faith in God can give them.

Never does the question go more deeply than when it concerns man's eternal welfare, as it does in our lesson. Always that question indicates that man is not able to decide for himself, and needs the guidance of someone greater and wiser than he. This should lead us back to God, for only He can fully answer it.

The story of the Good Samaritan tell us what we must do to show our love for God and man, and gives a demonstration of how it is to be done.

I. What to Do (vv. 25-28).

The lawyer (a student of the law of Moses, and hence a theologian rather than an attorney) was posing a question to try to entrap Jesus. He was apparently not much concerned about eternal life and assumed that it could be obtained by doing something.

We know that eternal life is a gift (John 1:12; Rom. 6:23), but if the man wanted to have it by doing, Jesus was ready to meet him. In response to Jesus' question (v. 26), the lawyer gave Him what the Jews regarded as the summary of the whole law.

The man who can perfectly keep that law will have eternal life, declares Jesus. But note that you must do it, not just talk about it. And you must keep the whole law, "for whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet stumble in one point, he is become guilty of all" James 2:10, R.V.; see also Gal. 3:10).

Observe that the commandment, so highly commended by our Lord, concerns a true love for God which shows in an active love for one's fellowman.

Love is the only thing that can save our bruised and bleeding world. How sad it is that in such an hour of need there is so little said in the church about love and it is practiced even less. It is the forgotten fundamental of all the fundamentals of faith! Let us begin to preach it and practice it!

II. How to Do It (vv. 29-37).

It is one thing to realize that one ought to do a thing; it is quite another thing to do it. Here we have what may have been an actual incident given by our Lord as an object lesson of the right and the wrong attitude toward a fellowman in need.

1. The Wrong Attitude (vv. 29-32).

The lawyer's effort to justify himself by diverting attention to the word "neighbor," which he felt needed definition, showed that he could not do the thing expected of him.

The reason for man's failure lies primarily in his own weakness and inability to do what God requires, but is also revealed in his pitiable and futile efforts to justify himself.

The one who seeing his sinfulness and his utter inability to keep God's law casts himself on the Lord is ready to receive the gift of eternal life. But the one who tries to defend his position and justify himself has shut the door on God's grace and mercy (see Luke 18:9-14).

The parable of the Good Samaritan answers fully and finally the question, "Who is my neighbor?" by making it clear that anyone who is in need, regardless of race, social position, condition or religion, is our neighbor.

The priest and the Levite doubtless had plenty of excuses for not helping the wounded man, but let us remember that excuses, while they may count with men, mean only our condemnation in the presence of God.

2. The Right Spirit.

It was the spirit of Christ that made the Samaritan show a compassionate and sacrificial interest in the needy man. Only Christ can make you and me like that. His love in the heart is the only "good neighbor program" that will ever work.

Statesmen, philosophers — yes and the man in the street — of our day are looking hither and yor for an answer to the world's need. They all sense that we must have something great, and tender, and powerful to unite the hearts of men or we shall soon be in conflict again. The next time we may well write civilization off the globe. What is the answer? Love! First, a real love for God, then love for our fellowmen of all nations. The answer to the world's awful problem is a revival of Christian faith; without it we perish.

Thunderhead

MARY O'HARA
W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Thunderhead, the only white horse ever foaled on Goose Bar ranch, is evidently a throwback to his great grandsire, a wild stallion called the Albino. His 14-year-old owner, Ken McLaughlin, hopes he will become a famous racer. Thunderhead, very fast but difficult to handle, has been entered in a race meeting in Idaho. A month before the races Thunderhead breaks away and joins a herd of wild horses. He kills the Albino. Ken is unable to recover him. Bob McLaughlin, Ken's father, sends a speedy filly, Touch and Go, to the track. In an early cold snap both Banner and Thunderhead bring their herds to the ranch. Rob rushes Thunderhead to the race track.

CHAPTER XXVI

A flashing glance of Rob's fierce blue eyes paid tribute to Ken for this sign of understanding and honesty. "All the same, Ken, we're committed to this and we can't turn back. Neither can Thunderhead turn back. It's too late. Remember, too, how much depends on this."

"What?"

"Have you forgotten all the things you were going to get for your mother?"

Ken winced.

"Right now, with hospital expenses facing us, believe me, if there's any money in Thunderhead, we need it."

Ken's mind began to turn and twist, looking in every direction for some escape for Thunderhead. Touch and Go had run in two races and had not shown in either, although she had nearly been in the money in the second race. She had one more chance, in the race which would follow the Greenway race that afternoon. But certainly she was nothing to count on now.

"And," went on Rob, "remember the things you were going to do for the ranch. Wooden fences. Clear off the debts."

"I know."

"Are you going to turn tail and be a quitter now at the last moment just because Thunderhead is mooning for his mares?"

"But dad—it's just because—because—well, he never was like this to me before. He always stared at me, and did things to me, aimed a kick or bite at me, you know. I always had to watch him. But he's changed. He was glad to see me this morning—glad! He—he—"

"What did he do?"

"Well, he just put his head in my arms and leaned against me the way he always did with mother, as if I was the only friend he had in the world—and gave a kind of a little numbling grunt, you know the sound, as if it comes right out of his heart."

Rob was silent and could not raise his eyes to look at his boy.

At last he said, "Ken, you've got a divided loyalty here. And there's nothing tougher than that. Which ever way you turn you hurt yourself and someone else too. This happens to people often and it'll be a good experience for you. Are you going to stick to your plan to make money for the ranch and for all our needs—your own too, don't forget that—the money that's needed for your education and Howard's—Are you going to carry on with what you've started—what we've all worked for for three years? Or are you going to—well, not exactly quit, but be deflected from your aim at the last moment?"

"Would that be wrong, dad?"

"It would not be strong, Ken. I could not admire such behavior. It wouldn't be manly. Sometimes, in life, you have to choose a course that is right and pursue it even if it hurts some innocent party."

Ken did not answer. Rob finished his breakfast, laid down knife and fork and pushed his plate away. "When Dickson gets on that horse this afternoon I want you to be pulling for them both with all your heart."

Ken's face began to burn. Visualizing Thunderhead prancing out with Dickson on his back, he couldn't do anything but pull for him! The idea of any other horse beating Thunderhead!

"And remember this, Ken, although right now Thunderhead's got his mind on other things than racing, and he's sulking, yet he's been trained for a race horse. It's in his blood now. And after a little of it, this life will become his true life."

Ken's eyes lifted to his father's with a deep probing question. "Honestly, dad? As much as his wild life would be?"

Rob hedged. "Well, Ken, you know how I feel about horses. I always have the regret that when we take them for our own ends and make artificial lives for them, we deprive them of their true and natural and self-sufficient lives. But those would not always be necessarily better lives, in terms of the horse's well-being and happiness."

This made Ken thoughtful. Rob was getting impatient. He called the waiter and paid the check. A glance at Ken showed him that the boy was still in a state of indecision. He leaned across the table.

"Listen!"

Ken looked up. There was a different tone in his father's voice and a different look on his face.

"You're going to make your decision right now, Ken, and then stick to it."

"Me?"

"Yes. Be a man. It's your horse. If you want him taken away from the race course without making a try, why it's up to you!"

"Is it, really, dad?"

"Sure it is." But there was a sharp, contemptuous look in Rob's eyes. "Make your choice!" He leaned back and took out his pipe and lit it, then looked around as if he had no further interest in the subject.

The decision leaped up in Ken, ready-made. He said, suddenly, "He'll run. And he'll win."

The words went through Rob like the twang of a string and caused him the emotion he always felt when one of his boys took a stride toward manhood.

His hand came down on Ken's arm and squeezed it. The other hand reached for his hat. "Come on, son! We'll go out and see to getting Thunderhead's shoes changed."

They walked out to the stables together, and if anything more had been necessary to crystallize Ken's determination, it was the remark his father made as they reached Thunderhead's stall. "Of course, Ken, if he doesn't win, and if we have to take him back, you realize I can't have him around the ranch any more. I'll have to sell him for anything I can get—and that means gelding him first."

Ken came to a dead stop. "But dad! I'd get him off the ranch. He'd go back to his valley!"

"But he wouldn't stay," said Rob simply, "and sooner or later he'd get in a fight with Banner—and, well—you know what that means. You saw—"

Thunderhead did not like Dickson, and came out of the stall fighting.

The rest of the field were off and away on the two-mile race while Dickson was still trying to shake the bit out of Thunderhead's teeth and head him in the right direction.

The stallion went up onto his hind legs.

Ken, standing close against the fence in front of the grandstand, leaned down and thrust his head between the bars. The blood came up into his face as he saw the fight Thunderhead was putting up. The field was way ahead already. Staghorn and Bravura, the two likeliest winners, running in the lead, five others bunched against the rail behind them, and three outclassed contenders trailing hopelessly. Thunderhead stood in the same place, whirling and plunging. Dickson lashed him unmercifully, and, as always, the fury engendered in the horse by this conflict mounted and finally exploded, releasing him from the complex of his inhibitions and flinging him into his smooth running gait.

Ken straightened up, drenched in the sweat of relief. But the field was already sweeping around the turn into the back stretch. The grandstand fell into a sudden breath-holding silence as the white stallion hit his pace, running, as it always seemed with Thunderhead, in the air, propelled by one lightning-quick hoof-thrust after the other, the unbelievable power of which kept him hurtling forward at a speed which was rapidly diminishing the distance between himself and the rest of the field.

Dickson rode with mouth open and a look of dumb amazement, and as Ken glanced around him, he saw this expression mirrored on a hundred faces.

The horses swept around the track.

Thunderhead passed the tail-enders, gradually overtook the next group and at the head of the home stretch passed them too. At that, the grandstand came out of its stupor and a low, sustained sound burst from it. Thunderhead was pulling up on the leaders, then was abreast of them, then passed them. At this, the grandstand rose, swayed, and burst into a roar, fluttering hands and programs and hats.

Thunderhead wavered and stopped, his flaring, white-ringed eyes and sharply pricked ears turned nervously to this strange heaving mountain to the right of him. At Dickson's yell and the shaking of the bit in his mouth, the stallion went up onto his hind legs.

Bravura and Staghorn rushed past, beginning the second lap of the race.

"Whip him, Dickson! Beat hell out of him!" Ken's voice, cracking with strain, reached Dickson from the crowd. Dickson cast one hopeless glance toward Ken as Thunderhead whirled and plunged, and a wave of the jockey's empty right hand showed that he had lost his whip.

Ken's open mouth closed without another sound and his face paled. Dickson pulled off his cap and beat it from side to side on Thunderhead's neck. Other horses passed him, streaming along the rail. Suddenly Thunderhead plunged forward, and again Ken was weak with relief. He unclenched his fingers slowly. Little bleeding scars were in the palms of his hands. It was all right now—Thunderhead had passed them once, he could do it again.

But Thunderhead had no intention of doing it. All he wanted, apparently, was a good spot in which to show everyone what he was going to do to this rider whom he didn't want on his back. Angling across the empty track, he floated over the inner rail, galloped to the center, leaped into the air, corkscrewing, came down with feet like four steel pistons—rocked a couple of times, and had no need to do more. For Dickson was making one of those slow curves through the air that Ken had made, times without number.

Free of his rider, Thunderhead decided to join in the race. He floated over the rail again—and the beautiful easy leap drew a gasp from the grandstand—and then he started to overtake the field. Again it grew like an orchestral crescendo—the roar of the grandstand—until the white horse closed the distance between himself and the rest of the field.

Thunderhead did not know when to stop. He floated on when the race was over and the winner proclaimed and the other horses were walking back into the paddock. Attendants ran out on the track and tried to stop him. That angered him. He dodged them, sailed over the outer rail and away into the distance, the little stirrups dangling and tapping at his sides.

When Thunderhead vanished beyond the grove of willows south of the race track, Ken fought through the crowd behind him, under the grandstand out at the back and around the west end of the track. He ran as fast as he could, keeping his eye on that little dip in the willows through which Thunderhead had disappeared.

Half a mile away the white stallion stood quietly. When Ken whistled for him, he turned his head, then trotted toward his young master.

As he came up, Ken looked at him bitterly. "You fool! You've thrown away the only chance you had in the world!"

Thunderhead stopped, recognizing something other than approval in Ken's voice.

"You could have done it! Easy as pie! And now you've spoiled everything!" There was a tremor in Ken's voice as he finished, and he said nothing more, but mounted the horse and rode him slowly back, circling the track to reach the stables.

As he did so, he heard by the roar from the grandstand that another race was in progress, and drew rein on a little elevation and turned in the saddle, just in time to see the horses flash over the finish line—a bright golden sorrel with blond tail a good length in the lead.

Touch and Go! He had entirely forgotten that she was running! And now she had won! A flood of joy alternated with the feeling that it could not possibly be true.

Ken galloped Thunderhead to the stables, not dismounting to open gates, but jumping every one. He put the stallion in his stall, called to one of the stable boys to attend to him, and ran back to the race track.

He was in time to hear the announcement over the loud-speaker. "Winner, Touch and Go, of the Goose Bar stables. Owner, Kenneth McLaughlin."

Ken stood still a moment. This was what victory felt like—Then he dashed forward. He wanted to get his hands on Touch and Go and see if she was really still herself.

Perry Gunston had her in the paddock. A blanket had been thrown over her, and around her was a crowd of men. Rob McLaughlin was talking to old Mr. Greenway, and he called Ken to him and said, "I want you to meet Mr. Greenway. This is my son, Mr. Greenway, the owner and trainer of the filly."

As Ken put out his hand he heard an eager little whinny behind him.

Mr. Greenway exclaimed, "You don't say! You don't say! And I hear you trained the white stallion too. But you'll never have any luck with him, my boy, too undependable."

The whinny came again and Ken longed to go to her.

"Mr. Greenway has just bought Touch and Go, Ken."

"Bought her!"

THROWING THE BULL

Among the stories which have crossed the ocean about those fabulous British Commandos is this story of one who had spent a long evening with friends at the village inn. They showed him a quick way home across the fields, forgetting that the local bull was loose.

The bull attacked, not recognizing the Commando's red beret. The unfortunate animal was gripped by the horns and lugged about the field until it managed to break free and bolt.

"Pity I had those last two drinks," said the soldier-matador. "I ought to have got that chap off his bike."

Good Neighbor Policy

Jones looked over his garden fence and beckoned to his neighbor. "I say, Smith," he said confidentially, "I understand you have Brown's lawn mower."

"Yeah, what of it?"

"Well, if you'll let me borrow it occasionally, I'll let you use his rake and shovel."

Sports Item

Mother—You were supposed to come home from the ball game in an hour, and you stayed nearly two hours.

Boy—It really wasn't my fault, mother. I tried to steal home in the fifth inning, and they wouldn't let me.

Mr.—I'll say he did. My wife thought it was me!

Something Missing

Mother—Jimmie, you appear to have been at the jam again.

Jimmie—Don't go by appearances, mother.

Mother—No, I go by disappearances.

Rational Behavior

Mrs.—Is it true that the butcher got so fed up with the meat shortage that he closed his shop and went on a vacation?

Mr.—Yes, he's gone on a meat loaf.

Long and Short of It

Wife—Does the newspaper give any description of the missing cashier?

Hubbie—Yes, he was about 5 feet, 5 inches tall and about $70,000 short.

Starting Even

She—I see by the paper that a boy who speaks six languages has just married a girl who speaks three.

He—I'd say that is about the right handicap.

Winter Winds

Myron—This is certainly terrible weather!

Byron—Yes, all it's fit for is conversation.

History Lesson

Teacher—What did Caesar say when Brutus stabbed him?

Boy—Ouch!

Golf Yarn

Brother—I made a hole in one.

Sis—One stroke?

Brother—No, one sock.

THANKSGIVING

Mr.—May I have the afternoon off to go shopping with my wife?

Boss—No; certainly not!

Mr.—Thank you very much.

Extra Long

Mrs.—I saw a swell show this afternoon, but I couldn't stay for the last act.

Mr.—Why not?

Mrs.—They said it took place a month later.

Double Trouble

Bess—I hear Jack's dad has two wives to support.

Tess—You don't mean he's a bigamist?

Bess—No, but Jack just got married.

Constipated? Given up hope of finding lasting, gentle relief? Then read this unsolicited letter:—

"I am a rural letter carrier. For more than 15 years I used a laxative every night. About a year and a half ago a good friend suggested that I try KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I did so—with the result that I have not taken a pill since. I eat ALL-BRAN generously every day. I find it a great help." John H. Martin, Westminster, Maryland.

Wouldn't you like to be able to be regular without ever resorting to harsh laxatives again? You may—if your constipation is due to lack of bulk in the diet! Just eat a dish of delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water! If not satisfied, send empty carton to Kellogg's of Battle Creek. You'll receive double the money you paid for it! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's a naturally regulating food made from the vital outer layers of wheat. It provides gentle-acting bulk that promotes normal, easy laxation.

Tinley Park News

Mrs. J. Frank Anderson is confined to her bed by illness in her home, the Methodist parsonage.

Sgt. Marshall Olson of the Marines received his honorable discharge in California a week ago and is now at his home in Tinley Park. He has been in service 44 months and served overseas 28 months in the Southwest Pacific. Marshall took part in the battle of Iwo Jima and was wounded, for which he was awarded the Purple Heart. He also wears the Asiatic Pacific theatre ribbon and 3 battle stars, and has been given a citation from Gen. Erskines for his efficient duty while serving overseas.

2nd Lt. Howard Mager received his honorable discharge October 1 from the Army at Ft. Sheridan, and is now home in Tinley Park. Howard entered service March 23, 1942 and has been overseas since May 1942 stationed in the Fiji Islands in the Southwest Pacific. He was doing Administrative work.

On November 7, 1944 Howard came back to the states and has been stationed in various camps since. He wears the Asiatic Pacific theatre ribbon.

Monday Mrs. D. Murphy and relatives from Kankakee motored to Chicago.

Tuesday the Hat Shop Bunco club met with Mrs. Fred Hopman.

Wednesday Mrs. Clemens visited with cousins in Wheaton.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Shevokas and family have returned from a two weeks trip spent near Princeton.

The former Larkin club, now a Pinocchio club, met with Mrs. D. Hirsch of Blue Island Tuesday evening.

Thursday the Tinley Park bunco club played at the home of Mrs. E. Rice with Mrs. F. Arnold hostess.

Little Evelyn Keuch has recovered from an illness of several weeks.

The Zions Ladies Aid met Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance. The main topic was the Bakery and Pantry goods sale to be held Wednesday October 31. All donations and gifts will be appreciated and it is hoped everyone will respond.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Byfield of Ridge-land Ave., and Mrs. Byfield's mother, Mrs. Emily Ran, enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner with all the trimmings at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Guth in Chicago. Mrs. Guth and Mrs. Byfield are sisters. The occasion was held Sunday, Sept. 30 in honor of Kenneth Guth F-2c who was home on furlough before going on sea duty. His brother Wm. J., Yeoman 1-c has been in some sea battles in the Pacific and is now in California, busy writing out discharges.

On the USS Massachusetts on the West Coast—Willis M. Guth, 27, Machinist's Mate, 3-c USNR, Tinley Park served on this battleship, which reached the West Coast on Sept. 13 to become the first vessel of her kind to return to the States since the close of the war. "Big Mamie" sank three enemy warships, including the French battleship Jean Bart, seriously damaged two other fighting ships, and sailed more than 225,000 miles to participate in 35 engagements during three years of operations in two oceans.

Included in her battle record are the invasions of North Africa, the Gilberts, the Marshalls, the Philippines, Iwo Jima and Okinawa, strikes on Truk, the Marianas, the China Coast and Japan, including Tokyo, and the Battle for Leyte Gulf.

Willis Guth, MM 3-c arrived in Tinley Park Sept. 18 on a 30 day furlough. He will leave Sunday night, accompanied by his wife and daughter and report to Bremerton, Wash. Willis has been in service 17 months, 14 of which were spent in the Western Pacific aboard the USS Massachusetts.

He has taken part in Supporting operations in the liberation of the Philippines, Iwo Jima, Okinawa, and took part in air strikes and bombardments on Formosa and Japan, also in operations in the China sea.

He wears the Philippine Liberation ribbon with 2 battle stars, the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with 6 battle stars.

Richard Douglas S 2-c left for the Southwest Pacific last Wednesday from Treasure Island, Cal. He has been in service since July 10 and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Douglas.

1st Lt. Robert W. Funk, of Tinley Park, who served 13 months in the European theater of operations as a Pilot has arrived at the San Antonio, Texas District AAF Personnel Distribution Command.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Funk, Tinley Park. Lt. Funk wears the Air Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster. He was recently liberated from a Prisoner of War Camp in Germany.

He will spend approximately two weeks at the redistribution station undergoing records and physical processing in preparation for a discharge or reassignment to duty in this country.

During his stay in San Antonio, this combat veteran who was assigned here upon completion of a 30 day leave at his home, will be duty free and have at his command all of the many recreational and educational facilities made available to returned airmen by the Personnel Distribution Command.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 30, was:

"REALITY"

The Golden Text was:

"Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation" (Lam. 5: 19).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"Thus saith the Lord, the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God. . . . All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee. They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power. . . . The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works" (Isa. 44: 6; Ps. 145: 10, 11, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and he makes all that is made. . . . The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas. . . . God is individual, incorporeal. He is divine Principle, Love, the universal cause, the only creator, and there is no other self-existence. He is all-inclusive, and is reflected by all that is real and eternal and by nothing else. He fills all space, and it is impossible to conceive of such omnipresence and individuality except as infinite Spirit or Mind" (pp. 472, 331).

Marley, Ill.
Sept. 29, 1945

Editor News-Bulletin:

In response to your request for a letter about the school picture of New Lenox taken in 1896, I remember in these school days we had lots of fun.

We used to be over at Millis Knickerbocker's a lot which was close to the school grounds. He was a great hand building kites, that was his hobby. I remember one kite real well, it was made like a small house about two by three and when he had it made, we boys were sure anxious to see it in the air, and it sure flew.

I remember those days, Mr. Holmes had a threshing separator he made him self, about five feet long and two feet high which was interesting to see.

Mr. Holmes was trying to get the patent on this separator, how he come out I don't remember, but I believe some one else got his patent and got the good of it.

Then to talk about Ollie and Mae Walters, I remember them well. Their father had a grocery store in the house I was born in, and now owned and occupied by Emil Braun and is made into a two apartment building.

Then there was Archie McAllister, our school mate, who made a National reputation as leader of the Champion High School band at Joliet.

But my biggest sport was to go and visit Willie Semmler on Saturdays. He and his folks were living in part of Ward Knickerbocker's building, which contained a store, drug store and Post Office and Willie's father, a shoe maker.

Willie made a very large toy locomotive in their back yard next to the Rock Island railroad. It sure looked just like a railroad locomotive. He even had a bell on it to ring.

When ever the Rock Island locomotive had something new, Willie would have it also. He had the whole locomotive covered with tin foil which he collected from tobacco packages.

I always thought that Willie would be a Locomotive engineer some day, but he fooled me, he got to be the Founder and Editor of the Mokena paper, which we all look for every week with pleasure.

Those in the school picture of 1896 are: Back row: Teacher, Miss Rulifson, Will Lynk, Ella Searles, Daisy Knickerbocker, Max Knickerbocker, Lizzie Sass, Earl Davies, Alice Nelson, Elmer Gillette, Mabel McAllister, Frank Urich, Asher Holmes, Chas. Francis, teacher.

Next row: Myrtle Searight, Ollie Walters, Louis Sass, Beaulah Bentley, Annie Watson, Annie Jensen, Carrie Bentley, Walter Francis, Chas. Nelson, Archie McAllister, Anna Pease, Lloyd Searles.

Next row: Bertha Nelson, Leigh Jones, Louise Jensen, May Weber, Eva Gougar, Mae Walters, Stella Waltz, Hazel Knickerbocker, Florence Gillette.

Bessie Jones, Eva Urich, Laura Jones.
First row: Howard Searles, George Hodge, Willie Semmler, Elmer Wilson, Art Weber, George Nelson, McAllister boy, Willie Weber.

LOUIS SASS

Sept. 24, 1945

Mr. Wm. Semmler:
Mokena, Ill.
My dear Sir:

Enclosed you find my list of the identification of the pupils in the picture you printed in a recent issue of The News-Bulletin. It is not complete, some given names I have forgotten and one or two sir names.

The old school was very dear to me and I regretted to see it torn down. It was where I spent many happy days, both as pupil and teacher.

The one thing I remember about the year the picture was taken, we of the fourth grade went up stairs for arithmetic.

Sincerely yours,
Caroline Bentley.

Next row: Myrtle Searight, Ollie Walters, —Rudd, Bertha Nelson, Elmer Willis, —Keefe, Beaulah Bentley, —Keefe, Chas. Nelson, Theo. Rapson, Annie Pease, Willie Osmus.

Next row: Caroline Bentley, Leigh Jones, Daisy Francis, Mae Weber, Marie Walters, Hazel Knickerbocker, Myrtle Gougar, Mary Wilson, Alta Lovejoy, Bessie Jones, Eva Urich, Laura Jones.

Adak, Aleutians, Sept. 22, '45

Dear Mr. Semmler: I guess it is about time that I got around to writing to you and thank you for the paper. Some times they come in a little later than usual, but I'm getting all of them.

I'm enclosing a copy of our own island paper that you might be interested in having. Before the war was over we couldn't mail them home, but now the censoring has been lifted. Thanks again for the paper and I hope that I can be back to good old Mokena soon.

Sincerely,

Fremont Warning.
Editor's note: Thanks Fremont for the paper, it is very newsy and we all enjoyed reading it. For the benefit of our readers, it gives bowling, radio, theatre schedules as well as courses in the "College of the Aleutians"; Lost and Found column, church services, and news in general of the U.S.A. One item stated that Vice Admiral Frank J. Fletcher banned the acceptance of gifts from the Japanese. The order came after some Japanese had offered a beautiful sword to an officer on the Admiral's staff.

Statement By Senator Brooks

The plans are being laid for the triumphant return of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz into the Capital City. Out of the dark course that ran through hail of bombs, torpedoes, shells, ships and planes from the dismal day of Pearl Harbor to the dawn of the day when Japan came meekly to surrender on the decks of the U. S. S. MISSOURI comes this senior fighting man of the sea to receive the plaudits and appreciation of those who will be privileged to participate in the Capital City of the Nation which he has served so well.

As the wars came to an end, the conquering heroes began to appear, General Dwight Eisenhower, the Allied Commander in Europe; General Chas. DeGaulle, from France; General Jonathan Wainwright from the tragedies of the prisons of Jaan, the hero of Corregidor; and now comes Admiral Nimitz, the hero of the Navy's unprecedented triumph across vast reaches of the dangerous Pacific. There may be more of these professional leaders of military and naval strategy and tactics who will come and they, too, should share in the overflowing appreciation of a grateful people.

However much we bestow our demonstrated devotion on these professional military and naval heroes and the professional dignitaries of the Governments of the world, we should always remember that American might and main was developed by the superior, courageous contribution of our American civilian servicemen. We honor the ability of our professional leaders trained through a lifetime at Government expense to lead the American people who temporarily laid aside their peaceful pursuits to face their death in the defense of their loved ones, their homes and their country. More than 12 million enlisted men left their farms, stores, schools and factories to meet cause of common men. The great majority of the officers of the armed forces came civilian life; the overwhelming majority of our enlisted men gave up their civilian homes and happiness to serve humbly, far removed from high places where generals and statesmen ordered events. These filled the ranks of combat forces, they met the enemy face to face, matched brain and brawn and brought them to their knees. These men undoubtedly will, and surely should, receive a hearty welcome in their home towns.

Up to now, they have not adequately shared in the parade, glamor and glory of their returning leaders, yet it was they who sacrificed the most, suffered the greatest hardships and performed the miracles in courage that brought victory to their leaders and to their country.

I offer a resolution which will direct the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard to each select one enlisted man from their combat service to be symbolic of all of the enlisted men of their service to be honored as official guests of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives on a date to be set within 60 days and designated as "Welcome Home Day" to the millions of enlisted men who faced their death at this Congress, the Nation, and form of Government it represents, might live to make its continuing contribution to the future welfare of free mankind.

Mrs. Andrew Eisenbrandt will observe her birthday anniversary Oct. 11.

Off the Runway

Civil Air Patrol, Squadron 613-3 by 2nd Lt. Erlene Conel

Recently my observer and I flew a Piper Cub from Rubinkam Airport. After getting an OK from the weather bureau, we set course for Pal-waukee Airport, to see for ourselves why folks like to visit there by auto or plane. Rubinkam is directly south of Chicago. Pal-waukee North of the city on Milwaukee Avenue, near Glenview. We headed slightly West-skirting the air-liner traffic of Municipal and thickly populated suburbs.

After enjoying thirty minutes "upstairs" our target on the map, appeared in full view below us. And in a few minutes, our wheels caressed the gravel on the runway. We were greeted by a line boy, who smiled and motioned us into position on the line. We brought the plane to roost, just as we noticed dark clouds coming in fast. It seemed as if we must have zipped the ceiling closed as we flew in.

We lost the race with the rain, running to the Flight Office. Once there we settled for a tongue wagging. For when actual flying stops, "hanger flying" starts. One of a friendly group was Art Schelter, Chief Pilot of ten Pal-waukee instructors. In answer to our questions, Art said you can get primary and secondary flight training at Pal-waukee, also the know how of night and blind flying. In a cycle of two or three weeks, 300 to 400 students (more than at any other airport in the Chicago area) "spread their wings" at Pal-waukee. And 50 percent of them are women. Art, who has soloed over 3,000 students, avoided talking about himself. Instead he "HIGH Lighted" Dwight (Pappy) Morrow and said "Pappy" was a favorite with students, and has flown 9,000 hours as an instructor. Both Art and Pappy hold every rating in the book!

After awhile, we got around to discussing the new Cub Trainer on display at Mandel Brothers in the loop of Chicago. I had seen it the week before. It has improved visibility, better panel and location of carburetor heat, all the safety features Cub is famous for. The gang out there really had the low down on new planes. Tufts and Edgcomb, Northern Illinois distributors for Cubs and Fairchild; also the distributor for the new Ercoup are based at Pal-waukee.

Although we couldn't do much about the weather setting in, we could when hunger set in. The Flight Office boasts a restaurant. We soon had the rare airport treat of having a good hot lunch "perched" in front of us. And for a modest 67c.

After lunch we stretched our own landing gear a bit, and strolled over to some of the buildings. Civil Air Patrol Squadron 611-3 has a colonial type Club house on the "port". And the "eager beavers" of the Associated Flying Club of America have their planes and building on the field, under the enthusiastic direction of Jim Goggin, originator of the organization. The A.F.C. of A is a story in itself, and can be found in the April issue of "Flying".

Next Week: The famous folks who fly at Pal-waukee. Including notes on "What happened when Charley McCarthy went up for a Check Flight", and "Details about a Different German parachute". Pal-waukee's Flight and Jump Instructor Ray Cuny related how it operates, and how it performed when jumped on the field.

Pal-waukee Airport Data for Airmen: Runways are gravel. Entire field is available. Runways: N. W. 3200 ft., N. S. 1300 ft. No East West runway. Make ground turns always to the right. There's day and night service, and airway beacon and night lighting facilities.

Local News: Dorothy Peterson is now flying on "Eagle's Wings". She got her Private License at Washington Park Airport. Other new privates are King Williams Jr., Walter Roney and Dan Griswold who won their tickets at Prosper Airport. First Solos at Prosperi have been made by E. C. Houghton and Hap Ramussen. Lt. Ed Prosperi is expecting new planes. Among them, a Cub Trainer and Super Cruiser, and a Republic Seabee.

CAP Big Victory Air show on its way! Plan now to be at the largest Air Show in years. Date: October 13th and 14th. Place: Rubinkam Airport.

What do you think of this column. Do you want "High Signs!" to continue? Write, right away to Sandy King, 6948 S. Kimbark, Chicago, Ill. That's all for now!

Sunday, September 30, 1945 Chicago, Ill.

Dear Lt. Conel:

Read your column "Off The Runway" in the Tinley Park Times and want to tell you how much I enjoyed it.

It is difficult to find good aviation news, and few newspapers carry only National news, which doesn't interest the little fellow like local airport news. Hope I will be able to pick up the paper each week, or do you write in any other paper?

Yours truly,
Cyrilla Knudtson,

Beware Coughs

from common colds

That Hang On

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

ONE-TWO-THREE-FOUR-
FIVE-SUGGESTIONS

...to help you make better use of your NEW
Telephone Directory

WE TRY to make your telephone directory accurate and complete. These five suggestions, if followed, will increase its usefulness.

1 Be sure to discard your OLD telephone directory if it was not collected when the new one was delivered. (Don't destroy it—turn it over with other waste paper to your regular collector.)

2 If you have a memo list of numbers called frequently, verify these numbers now by looking in your NEW directory.

3 Always consult the directory when not sure of the number.

Calling from memory is a common cause of wrong numbers.

4 Look in your directory—don't ask "Information" for numbers listed there. This avoids making two calls instead of one.

5 Use the "Classified" section (yellow pages in most directories) to locate wanted products, services or professional help—especially important now that substitutes must be found.

SWINFORD—Private Donald E.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father who gave his life for his country one year ago, Oct. 2, 1944.

The year has been lonely without you.

Your memory is still so dear.

The blow was hard, the shock severe.

We never thought your death so near.

Only those who have lost much can tell.

The pain of parting without farewell.

It's sad, but true, we wonder why the best are always first to die.

—Loving Wife and daughters.

Catholic Women to Discuss Responsibilities In Post-War Era

"The Catholic Woman's Responsibility in the Post War Era" is the theme of the current series of quarterly district meetings scheduled September 25 to October 26 by the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women. The meetings which are sponsored throughout Cook, Lake, DuPage, Will, Grundy and Kane counties, will emphasize the aims of the Council, with attention to the role the Catholic woman is to play in

The spiritual phase of the program will be brought into focus by the work of the Mass and retreat committees while the educational side will be the function of the study club committee. The theme of the meetings will be elaborated to include other phases of the Council's program: promotion of the Girl Scout program and the responsibility of members to serve as leaders, assistants, or as troop committee members; continuing cooperation with the USO-NCCS centers in offering a warm and friendly welcome and a helping hand to the returning veteran; and cooperation with the American Red Cross in organizing home nursing classes and recruiting nurses' aides for overburdened hospitals. Also focused will be the ACCW's cooperation in the NCWC-War Relief Services' clothing appeal for the sisters and children of war stricken Europe and the Orient.

Locally, the meeting for South District is scheduled for Tuesday, October 9, 2 p. m. at St. Victor's parish hall, Calumet City, Illinois. Mrs. Adolph Voss, 15602 Turlington, Harvey, Illinois, district president, will preside. Rev. Edward Hollway, pastor of Ascension Parish, Harvey, priest chairman for the area, will address the delegates on "Personal Sanctification."

Miss Helen M. Ganey, archdiocesan president has chosen the theme as the title of her address. District chairman, Mrs. Hubert J. Conway, 1108 Emerald Avenue, Chicago Heights, and Mrs. S. Burchell, 15032 Broadway, Harvey, will report their committee activities as will parish chairman, Mrs. E. Berwanger, 535 Price Avenue, Calumet City.

Mrs. Edmund J. Sullivan, ACCW study club chairman, will discuss "The Informed Woman". Rev. Thomas J. Birmingham is pastor of the host parish; Mrs. Eleanor Moll, 214 W. Mason Street, Calumet City, president.

Included within the area serviced by South District are the Catholic women's clubs, circles, and courts and the parishes in the following localities: Blue Island, Calumet City, Chicago Heights, Glenwood, Harvey, Homewood, Hazelcrest, Lansing, Midlothian, Posen, Steger and Tinley Park.

The Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, a federation of Catholic women's organizations, has its headquarters at 506 S. Wabash, Chicago. Rev. James C. Curry is executive director; Miss Helen M. Ganey, president.

A LEADING expert on brain and muscular action has announced that man's mental and physical prime or peak is around 33 years—that most of his good work is done before he is 40 and little of it after 50.

The expert admits that there are certain exceptions, but he is taking the general average. He fixes the physical peak around 33 years in the matter of age. The mental peak around 40. He may be entirely correct in sizing up the mental side of the argument. So many golden autumns have slipped by since we were 33 that most of the details are a bit hazy. But the expert uses up too many years in calling the athletic peak.

Bill Tilden

Here are just a few leading examples—

1. Jack Dempsey was just 24 the day he manicured Jess Willard and in this Massacre of Maumee Bay, Dempsey was at his peak. He was better that hot July afternoon than he ever was later on. He earned a one-round knockout in that Toledo assault, bell or no bell.

2. Ty Cobb was 25 when he turned in his greatest season. This was in 1911, when Ty delivered 248 base hits, 147 runs, 83 stolen bases and a batting average of .420. He was almost as good a year later with a .410 average, but not quite up to his 1911 collection. The two ages of 25 and 26 found the Georgia Peach at the top of a great career.

3. Babe Ruth was 33 years old when he blasted his 60 home runs. This was in 1927. But the Babe fired 59 four base blows in 1921 when he was only 27. But it should be recalled that the Babe was a pitcher until he reached the age of 25. He was around 24 when he came to his pitting prime.

Jones a Champ at 21

4. Bobby Jones found his best year in 1930 when he ran into his Grand Slam. He was then 28 years old. A "Boy Wonder" at the age of 14, he was 21 before he won his first championship in 1923. While Jones was only 28 when he retired from active competition, he still had known 15 seasons of hard, tournament golf.

5. Big Bill Tilden was 26 before he won his first major crown. His top years ran from 26 to 31, although he remained a star through another decade. But you could name his peak at 28 or 29 and not miss the mark by many weeks.

6. Jim Thorpe, greatest all-around athlete, came to his best year in 1912 when he was in the general neighborhood of 25 years. That was the year Old Jim won the Olympic all-around championship while also playing his best football and baseball.

You'll find this cross section gives you man's athletic prime around 26 or 27. I mean the top ones. I could name other examples. Walter Hagen was 21 when he bagged his first U. S. open crown in 1914 and he was 26 when he won his last one at Brae Burn in 1919. But after that his British campaign was just as brilliant.

The war cut into any Joe Louis rating but you could name his 27th year and not be far wrong.

And there's the case of Mel Hein, the Giant center now facing his 19th or 20th football season, adding in his college years at Washington State. Hein's peak was in the vicinity of his 27th or 28th year.

Value of Experience

The eminent expert in sizing up the mental and physical side overlooked one important detail—it is the physical side that collapses or takes the first dip.

Many veterans still hang on, veterans with fading legs and fading arms, through greater experience and the smartness that only the years can bring. These men have to offer their brains against younger legs and younger arms.

Jack Quinn was a winning pitcher well beyond 40, after 26 years of pitching. When some one asked Jack how he could hang around so long his answer was quite simple—"A wife and six children."

But the golden age of sport is still youth—those years that run from 23 to 27. At the ages of 26 and 27 we have the winning combination of physical youth and experience. Possibly the ages 22 or 23 would be the big years physically, but they lack the experience which later years bring.

Knute Rockne never liked sophomores and John McGraw never cared for rookies.

After all, there is no substitute for experience, eight times out of ten. In this diagnosis we must stick with the general average—not with the exceptions. In sport the best physical years would be around 23—the top mental years around 28.

"As a matter of fact," several well known trainers tell me, "the ideal physical age, minus experience, is around 21 or 22. It is experience and the know-how that make 26 or 27 the better years."

Veterans SERVICE BUREAU

EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.

Speed Up Discharge

With the rate of discharges from the armed forces soon expected to exceed 500,000 per month, several organizations, among them the American Red Cross, are taking steps to expand services to the veterans to make easier the path from uniform to civilian clothes.

The latest move of the Red Cross is the enlargement of the field directors' staffs in hospitals and the installation of full-time paid field directors in veterans administration hospitals to work with Red Cross volunteers now serving in these hospitals.

Many veterans in their haste to get home often pass up the service available at hospitals and separation centers and often regret their haste, for the army and navy and other organizations have provided trained personnel to inform the veteran of all his rights, to help him plan his future and to advise him in many fields. He should take advantage of these facilities.

Questions and Answers

Q. What members of an army man's family are eligible for medical care? Mrs. I. C., Downsville, La.

A. The war department says that the wife and children are normally eligible for medical care, but if a mother, father, or minor sisters or brothers are living within the soldier's immediate household and are dependent upon him for support they too may be eligible for medical care.

Q. My son was killed in action and I sent in a claim for a pension several months ago and haven't heard yet. I am sick and not able to work and I need some help. What can I do? Mother, Dalton, Ga.

A. If your son was unmarried and you were his beneficiary and dependent upon him you are entitled to compensation. If he was married, his widow is entitled to the pension. Suggest that you write again to the Regional Office of the Veterans Administration at Atlanta, Ga., and explain your case. Sometimes action is slow, but if you are entitled to a pension it will be retroactive from the time you made application.

Q.—My son enlisted in the air corps in June, 1944. He was called in January, 1945, and passed all the exams at the induction center. When he received all his "shots" he was sent to a hospital and he was given an honorable discharge March 8, 1945, due to his heart. Is he eligible for G.I. benefits?

A.—If the injury or ailment of your son was received or aggravated by his service, he is eligible for G.I. benefits. You may determine this by having him apply for a certificate of eligibility. Generally speaking a person must have served in the armed forces at least 90 days in order to qualify for benefits under the G.I. Bill.

Q. As I understand it, all World War II veterans who have been honorably discharged from the services are to receive a bonus or payment of $1,040. They are to receive this in $20 a week payments or $520 a year. As I am writing this I am serving time in prison, but I was given a medical discharge from the service in 1942. Will veterans who are serving time in any institution receive this money if they were honorably discharged from the service? No. 18850, Illinois State Penitentiary, Menard, Ill.

A. You have been misinformed, since no veterans receive a bonus. They do receive mustering-out pay up to $300 and if they do not obtain employment after applying to the United States Employment Service they may receive unemployment compensation up to $20 per week for a maximum of 52 weeks. If you received a medical discharge, it may be possible that you are entitled to draw service connected disability payments. Suggest you take the matter up with your prison physician for application to the nearest regional office of the Veterans Administration. If you have an honorable discharge, the fact that you are in prison will not make any difference in obtaining any compensation to which you are entitled.

Q. Is a veteran's dependent child, living separately, entitled to a part of his mustering-out pay? B. S., Geneva, Ala.

A. Mustering-out pay is given directly to the honorably discharged veteran, $100 at time of discharge, if he has served less than 60 days; $100 in 30 days if he has served 60 days and no foreign service, and an additional $100 in 60 days if he has had foreign service, a total of $300.

Q.—Can you tell me what fuel is used to power the new jet-propelled P-30 called the "Shooting Star"? A.—Kerosene.

Better Handling of Range Helps Forage

Grazing Plans Aid to Natural Reseeding

More than 73,244,000 acres of grazing lands are being conserved, developed and utilized under range management plans which are a part of the government's agricultural conservation program.

Better forage for livestock is a natural result of better handling of accessible range. At the same time, soil on the range and on nearby cropland receives increased protection.

Proper utilization of rangeland requires a carefully worked-out "use plan" involving a number of factors. In widest use are such practices as rotating grazing, natural reseeding through deferred grazing, artificial reseeding by drilling, broadcasting and harrowing in suitable locations, development of properly spaced, adequate and dependable water supplies, eradication of destructive plants, proper fencing to facilitate uniform distribution of stock, and water spreading measures to divert run-off water and prevent erosive action.

Proper management of one range area may require only a few of these practices, while another will need many or all of them in order to return the range soil to its original fertility. Reseeding, both natural and artificial, is an essential to most rangeland.

While natural reseeding through deferred grazing is held to be the most practical method, excellent results are reported from artificial reseeding on lands where sufficient remnants of desirable forage plants did not remain.

Extension Oil Can

FIG. 1
Oil Can Equipped with Wire.

There are usually one or two oil holes on all machinery that the average oil can will not reach. This can be remedied by taking a copper wire about three inches longer than the spout and bend at right angles, as shown in the illustration. The bent end is inserted into the can, and spout is placed over the wire. The bent piece will prevent wire from falling out but will allow the oil to follow wire into oil hole desired.

Postwar Machinery Harvester

Postwar harvesting will be taken care of by self-propelled harvesters. The self-propelled feature on this machine designed by the Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement company, makes possible the harvest of all crops at lower cost.

Unusual engineering development makes the feature adaptable in harvesting all types of grain including rice.

Alfalfa Meal Valuable

Alfalfa meal has been found of high value as a source of the water-soluble vitamins in hog feeding.

A supplement of 10 to 12 per cent alfalfa meal in a basal diet to sows in the gestation and lactation period resulted in 82.5 per cent of their pigs reaching weaning stage. This trial showed superior results when compared with ground yellow corn, soybean meal, tankage, fish meal tankage and dried corn distillers' solubles.

Portrait of a Man:

The namby-pamby treatment accorded Japan has become a bone in the throat of peace. Hirohito has become the fair-haired rat; Jap propagandists drool he is solely responsible for making peace, while the American conquerors sit around twiddling their bayonets. That is just another form of discredited appeasement which incited the war! . . . The impression is being created that the Mikado was just an innocent bystander. Hell, you would think Killer Hirohito was Lord Fauntleroy. Such horse-radish! . . . On Dec. 7, 1943 (the anniversary of Pearl Harbor), the Jap Emperor sent this cable to Hitler: "I express joy to see our goal realized step by step."

Not only is Hirohito being coddled, but the whole Imperial Jap family has been absolved of any war crimes. However, the blood on their filthy paws shows through the white-wash. . . . One of the most bestial crimes in history was the rape of Nanking. Prince Asaka was in command at Nanking when that unspeakable atrocity took place. . . . Asaka is the Mikado's brother!

It is a crazy world. The Greeks who were supposed to be liberated got tougher treatment than the Japs who are supposed to be conquered.

Japs are being treated as chums. Indicted secessionists continue their pro-Nazi sprees. Nazi war prisoners are coddled. Nothing is being done about the Argentinazis and Spanish fascists who aided our enemies. Our diplomats are leery about punishing all war criminals. . . . At the same time, isolationists are slinging slime at FDR. Our Russian ally is being rapped. Some politicians oppose plans to make certain Americans will have jobs.

WHOOONELL WON the war?

Berlin newsboy Gladwin Hill relayed this striking contrast between the Soviet's stern realism in Nazi-land and America's hemming and hawing. . . . While the Americans were working out the fine points of a long range program to provide Germans with non-Nazi movies, the Russians blandly authorized German movie houses to reopen with the implicit warning to every German exhibitor that if he peddled any Nazism he might turn up missing.

Using their own ugly hatred instead of facts, some jack-ass-trick rags are attempting to pin the blame for Pearl Harbor on FDR. . . . However, none of them raise their voices about the fact that Gen. MacArthur was caught napping at Manila. Almost our entire airforce in the Philippines was destroyed on the ground TEN HOURS AFTER the PH attack.

Some of us wondered why Colepaugh and Gimpel, who were deposited on the Eastern shore by a Nazi submarine, had their death sentences commuted to life in prison. . . . The col'm learns that Colepaugh (the American) "was of considerable help to the U. S." (with information), which is why his sentence was commuted. . . . Put Gimpel gave no help whatever and he was spared, too.

You've gotta hand it to those terrible Russians. When they capture spies they fix it so they never again have toothaches.

When Admiral Halsey visited the U. S. it was said he came for a rest, which isn't the fact. . . . Halsey was beached for sassing a Big Boy from the Navy Dep't. . . . This exec had flown to Halsey's ship to probe something that had to do with losing a ship. It turned out to be shortage of shells, which was not the Admiral's fault. The blame rested with the supply men in SF and San Diego. . . . At any rate, this biggie arrived on Halsey's birthday and as the ship's officers gave Halsey a surprise birthday cake with candles, the Man from Washington put a damper on the party by saying: "A birthday cake? With people starving? You all ought to be ashamed!" . . . To which Halsey, whose men love him for his courage and war record, said: "I'm very sorry, sir, you are unhappy about us all having a little cake. Tell me, how's the food been lately at the Stork Club?" . . . When Mr. Big got back to Washington Halsey was beached.

President Truman's warm humility has been his most striking characteristic. Perhaps it is best illustrated by his favorite motto: "It's what you learn after you know it all that counts."

Incidentally, when the U. S. Navy broke the Jap naval code (just before the Battle of Midway), what has never been revealed is that the Japs broke ours. The damage and casualties that resulted in the next 48 hours (before we had a new code) is something for the historians. . . . Gen. MacArthur is among those due for attack. From what source and when I don't know now. He will be charged with being one of the first advocates for a soft peace for Japan (not many months ago).

At That, the City Chap Wasn't Doing So Bad!

A city chap was fishing on the banks of a stream for several hours without as much as a nibble, when a country lad approached and asked, "How many fish ya got, Mister?"

To which the angler replied, "None, as yet."
"How long ya been fishin'?" asked the boy.
"Oh, I guess a couple of hours."
"That ain't bad," observed the boy. "There was a feller fished here for two weeks and he didn't get any more than you did in a couple hours."

And the fisherman could but remark, "You don't say!"

SNAPPY FACTS about RUBBER

A U. S. Senator traveling in the West stopped to help a young lady change a flat tire. The flat developed a friendship that blossomed into marriage.

Soap is one of the important manufacturing agents of synthetic rubber. B. F. Goodrich has developed a synthetic rubber using a resin soap derived from Southern pine trees that is a great improvement over ordinary synthetic.

Demand for passenger car tires will total about 70,000,000 casings in the first year after the war—for both new cars and replacements.

Kidneys Must Work Well—

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.
